About TEID – Ethics and Reputation Society

Ethics and Reputation Society (Etik ve İtibar Derneği – TEID - <http://www.teid.org/>) is a not-for-profit, non-governmental organization founded in 2010 with competence in integrity risk management and anti-corruption aiming to develop and encourage adherence to internationally recognized business ethics principles within the Turkish business environment. TEID acts as a point of reference for private sector companies to implement the principles of business ethics and with the public sector in the pursuit of a socio-economic environment that incentivizes compliance with these principles. TEID not only guides the companies to create their business ethics policies and principles, but also helps them adapt these values to their administrative and commercial functions. TEID vision is to create a cultural change in the Turkish Private Sector and train compliance officers who will effectively manage integrity risks for their companies. In that respect, TEİD is collecting data on corruption and integrity through regular surveys on business community. We produce and deliver courses and online training modules and run “Ethics and Compliance Officers Certification Programs” for the education and certification of relevant private sector professionals. TEİD designs tools for the use of compliance officers. TEID creates stakeholder engagement strategies, execute the communication plan and conduct event management for higher visibility and effective communications. TEID has over 240 members with a total yearly income that exceeds 15% of Turkey’s GDP employing more than 1.000.000 persons. All our corporate members are signatory of TEID’s Integrity Pledge, which is Turkey’s biggest cross-sectoral collective action initiative. TEID has established the Turkish Integrity Center of Excellence (TICE) www.tice.org.tr ; the Private Sector Collective Action Center (ÖSKEM) www.oskem.org.tr and is the founder of “Business Ethics Application and Research Center” within Istanbul Bilgi University.

TEID’s roles in international anti-corruption efforts and memberships:

- B20 Integrity and Compliance Taskforce member;
- B20 Turkey
 - Anti-Corruption Taskforce member;
 - Anti-Corruption Taskforce, “Combatting Corruption in Customs workstream leader;
- OECD’s Anti-Corruption Network Member;
- UNODC’s Anti-Corruption Network Member;
- GlobEthics Network Turkey regional representative;
- European Business Ethics Network member;
- UNCAC Coalition member.

TEID tries to facilitate collective actions:

- to create a point of leverage before the regulators,
- to affect regulatory change in combating with corruption and effective management of integrity risks,
- to enhance the commitment of the private sector with a strong advocacy program,
- to become a point of reference for business ethics and compliance related matters.

TEID has also advocated for the ethics and compliance manager as a profession and has prepared the profession profile, description, and standards with authorities. The official national ethics and compliance manager occupational standard has been published in the Official Gazette in June 2018.

Parallel to this advocacy, TEID has established TEID Akademi, a training program for “Corporate Ethics and Compliance Management”. The program has finished its 15th edition, and we now have more than 480 certified ethics and compliance managers in Turkey. The certification program consists of a 53-hours program together with a practicum to be prepared and presented at the end of the program.

In a short amount of time after it was established, TEID was accepted as a Global Compact Member; therefore, immediately upon establishment, TEID started to consider the Global Compact Ten Principles in every action.

In addition, TEID motivated its members to adopt the Global Compact Ten Principles and consider these principles in their daily business life.

The most significant application to impose these principles upon its members, TEID prepared the TEID Cross-Sectoral Integrity Pledge to be signed by each of its members in order to declare their commitment to the principles of TEID and Global Compact. With this bond, they announced their responsibility to abide by these principles in every administrative and commercial activity they lead, as well as to disseminate these principles to their employees and shareholders.

Global Compact Principles: Anti-Corruption

According to World Bank data, the money paid for bribery in the world each year is more than 1 billion dollars. It is a fact that the existent corruption in the world leads to a 20% increase in cost of business in developing countries' economies. Therefore, in order to ward off bribery, private sector and the state should work together as it is a common enemy.

As TEID, we are aware of the importance of this situation for our country and for the world, and we are leading many national and international practices to stop corruption.

Turkish Integrity Center of Excellence – TICE

Turkish Integrity Center of Excellence (TICE) aims to level the playing field by inclusion of the private sector into combatting corruption.

Businesses seldom have appropriate expertise to implement internationally developed anti-corruption and good governance guidelines and standards. Assessment of improvement is hardly possible due to non-existing coherent data regarding socio-economic effects of corruption on leading sectors of the local economy.

Many companies have some sort of ethical standards but what they don't have is a compliance program to turn those standards into the very basis of their written corporate culture. Consequently, business ethics remain a soft skill for the companies rather than a value and an asset to be measured, reported and effectively managed. Our vision in this project is to create a cultural change in the Turkish Private Sector and train compliance officers who will effectively manage integrity risks for their companies.

TICE is a platform that will impact the Turkish Business both nationally and internationally in increasing its compliance standards.

We do not only act as a point of reference for the private sector companies assisting them to implant the principles of business ethics but we also work closely with the legislator in the pursuit of a socio-economic environment where companies act in compliance with those principles do not lose their competitiveness but gain advantages.

Education, Trainings and Professional Certification

To produce and deliver courses and online training modules and runs “Ethics and Compliance Professionals Certification Programs” for the education and certification of relevant private sector professionals and produces tools for the use of compliance officers.

In parallel with the Ethics and Compliance Manager Certification Program, which started on November 5, 2016, TEİD was appointed by the Ministry of Labor and Social Security, Turkish Vocational Qualifications Authority to prepare the Occupational Standards of Ethics and Compliance Managers. After being published on the Official Gazette on June 2018, the Ethics and Compliance Profession has now a recognized status as a profession in Turkey.

Turkish Authorities have announced the “National Profession Standards of Ethics and Compliance Manager” Level 6.

The Standards address the role and responsibilities for an Ethics and Compliance Manager. They address requirements, the working environment and conditions, tools and equipment to be used, as well as codes of conduct which must be followed. They also cover measurement, evaluation and documentation systems.

Accordingly, an Ethics and Compliance Manager is responsible for:

- Establishing and implementing ethics and compliance programs, as well as related policies and procedures.
- Identifying roles and responsibilities within the organization.
- Establishing communication mechanisms within the framework of legislation, service procedures, quality requirements, risk management priorities and ethical principles which the organization is subject to.
- Conducting briefings, trainings and awareness studies regarding implementation of the ethics and compliance program.
- Monitoring, reporting and updating the program and keeps track of violations and notifications.

The Professional Standards were prepared by TEİD, the Ethics and Reputation Society, upon delegation by the Turkish Profession Standardization Institute and published in Official Gazette number 30446 on June 9, 2018. Please see this link for full text of the Standards. On July 2021, the draft National Qualification for the ECP have been published on TEİD website and on VQA website. The draft list has also been shared with 35 designated authorities during the review period before the final acceptance process by the VQA. <https://www.teid.org/etik-ve-uyum-yoneticisi-taslak-yeterlilik-gorus-paylasimi/>

“Next Gen Ethical Leaders” Project

As Ethics and Reputation Society (TEİD), besides focusing on business ethics, creating and sustaining ethical society culture is one of our most important objectives.

If we look at Turkey's labor force, it is around 30.5 million people, which makes Turkey the 3rd largest labor force market in Europe. Young population is an important contributor to labor force growth and has boosted the country's rank over its competitors. Turkey has posted the largest labor force growth in relation to EU countries.

Annual Average Increase in Labor Productivity (%)

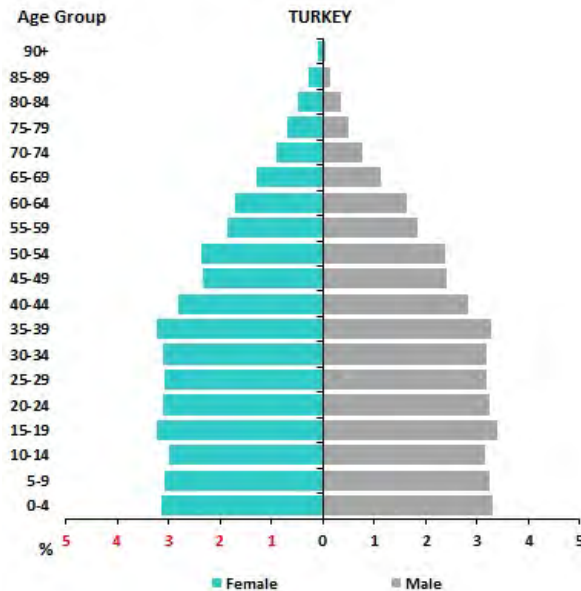

The growth in the number of universities has allowed Turkey to graduate a larger number of students, which in turn, has enabled Turkey to transform its young population and large labor force into a skilled workforce.

Turkey's characteristics:

- More than 6.7 million students are enrolled in tertiary education
- Approximately 800,000 students graduate from universities every year
- World-class engineering education

Turkey, with half of its population under the age of 31 in 2016, has the largest youth population when compared with countries in the EU. In the past decade, Turkey’s age-dependency ratio has continued its downward trend.

Source: OECD, World Bank, ISPAT, TurkStat

With “Next Gen Ethical Leaders” project, TEİD is aiming youth to increase awareness on ethical values and to incorporate those values before entering the labor market. The earlier youth get aware and adopt ethical values, the more they will tend to take ethical decisions as individuals, as future parents, as employees, as managers and leaders.

TEİD’s focus on youth has started in 2014 with Mustafa Saffet Anatolian High School, which later became the very first public high school with an ethical code in Turkey.

What brought us together was the students’ research, in order to improve their fictive Entrepreneurship Club companies. They had discovered that, in order to make their business sustainable, they should adopt an ethical management. While searching a reference institution to be guided on this matter, they realized that most of the Turkish leading companies were TEİD corporate members, so they have contacted TEİD and have started to work together since then. Once we had a general information session on business ethics, students prepared their club companies code of ethics. As they understood the importance of these values, they decided to adopt the same approach for their school itself.

This very first experience has also been a prototype which guided us to create the roadmap of our project with the “Today’s Youth is Tomorrow’s Leaders” motto. Our aim is to increase the awareness of ethics by the young generation and contribute to the raise of responsible individuals and leaders for the future.

The main objective of the project is to create a behavioral change of the young generation so that their ethical decision mechanism functions as a natural will. This is only possible by internalization of the ethical values.

Parallel to that objective, students create an ethics committee with the elected representatives. They revealed their own ethical values during a first “Ethical Values Workshop” where the attendance was only limited to the students and TEİD representatives in order to break the hierarchical chain between the students and administration/teachers. The refined values were gathered under the title “Code of Ethics” and announced/promoted within the school.

The adventure of MSAL (Mustafa Saffet Anadolu Lisesi) continues with the creation of a hotline within their school as a next step to the code of ethics and an ethics committee.

On the other hand, recognizing the ethical problems, resolving those problems, and finding a communication strategy, award mechanisms and all kind of similar subjects were released to the students’ choices, goodwill and imagination.

Believing that ethical principles should be inclusive of the whole society not only today but also in the future in accordance with the principle of sustainability, TEİD aims to make the younger generations think about the concept of ethics that is among the dynamics of the global business world in more detail.

In this direction, TEİD continues its work in schools for young people aged between 15 and 19 to internalize ethical principles. At the same time, TEİD, in cooperation with universities, hosts lectures on “Business Ethics and Compliance”, shares ethical and compliance practices in the business world with university students, and also promotes the profession of “Ethics and Compliance Manager”.

Knowledge dissemination to Youth: 12 events to 607 students on business ethics awareness and 1 edition of TEİD Academy Next Gen with 25 graduates from different universities.

SUMMARY

Since October 2019, TEİD has gained 84 new corporate members; including Turkey's biggest companies that are willing to develop their own compliance teams & programs and promote the same approach throughout their third parties. Together with new members, TEİD ecosystem represents 850k employees instead of 250k. Among those 84 new corporate members within TEİD, 25 are also from the ISO500 list. A shift in ethics and compliance requirements from those leading companies had a positive impact on TICE activities, where resources have been disseminated widely among business partners of those companies.

The significant increase of TEİD corporate members also shows the bigger interest shown in the Turkish private sector for a change towards more fair market conditions, and Turkish leading companies are also leading the paradigm shift regarding this by becoming TEİD members and by using TEİD tools such as the generic due diligence set, the publications, and also by taking TEİD corporate trainings or by sending their own ECP to TEİD Akademi trainings.

TEİD has introduced integrity pledges in several sectors and areas to level the playing field with the project TICE. Through these Collective Action initiatives, TICE had a significant positive impact on clean market conditions in the respective sectors or areas.

TICE's scope extended thanks to partnerships with local, sectoral organizations, giving the domino effect expected as TICE didn't only act on behavioral change for TEİD members but also their potential local third-party companies.

There are now more than 430 certified ethics and compliance managers, a well-known and reputable certification program on E&C management with an outstanding number of graduates and trainers. In addition, there is also a program suitable for the ECPs of the future. The E&C function and department are now set as unconditional key functions of companies.

Finally, TICE also worked for the future with the TEİD Academy Next Gen training program, where the ethics and compliance practitioners of the future had access to training with high-level ethics and compliance knowledge. This will allow TICE to have a mid/long-term positive impact on the Turkish private sector for clean market conditions. A wider behavioral change for clean business conduct will be observed in the upcoming years when those graduates will be part of the Turkish private sector.
